16. Describe the types of decisions made independently in this position and tell who or what is affected by those decisions.

Psychiatrists at this level must undergo training to be designated by the Director of the Center for Forensic Psychiatry as a Consulting Forensic Examiner. Once the training for this designation is satisfactorily completed, the psychiatrist may make clinical and forensic legal decisions independently with regard to all matters, including criminal responsibility and competency to stand trial. They may independently treat forensic psychiatric patients, as far as prescription of psychotropic medication is concerned, and assume charge of a particular patient's care. This directly impinges upon what recommendations will be made to the court regarding a patient and what treatment a given patient may receive.

17. Describe the types of decisions that require the supervisor's review.

As the psychiatrist is not yet a consulting forensic examiner, all forensic issues must be reviewed. Supervisor's review may be required when a patient complains regarding ongoing problems with medication, when a request for a patient is made to transfer the patient elsewhere or with regard to approval of leaves of absence or discharge with regard to forensic patients. Supervisor also has the authority to make the final decision as to what committees the staff psychiatrist serves on and what their particular mix of assignments will be at any given time.

18. What kind of physical effort is used to perform this job? What environmental conditions in this position physically exposed to on the job? Indicate the amount of time and intensity of each activity and condition. Refer to instructions.

The Forensic Psychiatrist must do considerable walking to get from one area of the Center to another. They are required to drive significant distances at times in order to give testimony or evaluate patients in other places. Distances more than 200 miles may require that the person fly and/or stay overnight at the remote site. Also, patients at the Center are a particularly difficult and dangerous population to work with. They are almost exclusively accused or acquitted felons who have a history of danger, assaultive behavior, as well as active psychiatric symptomatology.

19. List the names and position code descriptions of each classified employee whom this position immediately supervises or oversees on a full-time, on-going basis.
